

Authorization to Release Information

Office of Financial Aid

The Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) of 1974 is a federal law that protects the privacy of student education records and applies to all schools receiving federal funds from the U.S. Department of Education. This regulation relates to financial aid and the release of information concerning financial aid. Before the Office of Financial Aid can release any written or verbal financial aid data to anyone other than the student, this form must be completed and returned to the Office of Financial Aid.
